How to restore a deleted recording on directv genie

FILED UNDER: Direct satellite I think DIRECTV does some of the best DVRs that have ever been. Probably the best DVRs that will ever be, since it is likely that DVR technology is about how evolved as it is going to be. But also the best design does not work well some of the time and this is what this article is about. So go find your favorite show... and did not record. The first thing you obviously want to do is ask to see if someone else has deleted it by chance. The odds are they didn't. So, you need to dig deeper. Press the LIST button and the left arrow, then until Manage the recordings. Arrow over to Recording History and press SELECT. If someone has actually eliminated something, you will see the name of the receiver that has deleted it. More often than you see a message that the recording did not take place because the episode was no longer available. What does "This episode is no longer available" mean? It means that in the last update of the guide data, the episode did not appear or did not meet the criteria set. If you just wanted to run first, then you won't record something you think is a replica. Driver data updates take place all the time. There is a set of driving data that actually comes down from the satellite once an hour. It only contains the latest information so that the recordings can be reprogrammed if something goes long or does not go in the air. Sometimes, an episode will not record because it is really a replica. If this information available first, it could be programmed to record and then be canceled. And then, on the other hand, sometimes the data is genuinely wrong. The problem abroad There is a specific problem that happens with programs that have transmitted abroad before. You see it often with BBC America. The DVR detects if something is "First Run" if its real air date corresponds to the date of the air in the data. However, if the program broadcast abroad before, the data of the guide can show the date it first transmitted abroad. In this case, the DVR will not register it as "First Run". This does not happen often as it once, but it explains some of the strange recording problems that people have. Other types of problems Sometimes the driving data stored on the DVR is damaged. The data is coming in and out all the time and sometimes something is stored wrong. Corrupted data is a lot of the missing recordings. Although it does not happen often, this is why it tends to happen. Another cause of problems can be hard drive damage. The hard drive in the DVR is designed to work for almost a decade with only minor problems. It is always checked in a few ways. However, sometimes damage occurs due to wear and tear. This damage can be difficult to detect without performing the type of test that only a complete reboot can solve. How to solve common problems If you get only some missing recordings per year, it is probably due to bad driving data. On the other hand if it is becoming common you'll want to see if there's anything you can do. restart the gene dvr by finding the red button and pushing it. (receiving only client boxes will not help.) there is a whole tutorial here. drive data and hard drive will be automatically checked as part of reboot. reboot can take a little more if there has to be some sort of correction. It's normal. Occasionally you will see a message that the hard drive has to be checked and that this will take some time. once you return live tv, restart again, immediately, this will delete a lot of logs, including all the old driving data. you will download quickly enough that you will not lose any registration. if this still does not help, unfortunately the next step is to replace the dvr that means losing all the recordings on the dvr you have. if you need help with a replacement, call people to solid signal at 877.312.4547 and will make you set all! How do I get my recordings back on directv? Step 1: Select "My shows" (for the 3 and previous series models, select "Now playing List" instead) in the two central menu, then select "Recently Deleted." Step 2: highlight the show you want to recover, and then press the "Select" button on the remote. .Will reset my directv box to delete my recordings? this will reset a lot of default settings on your dvr, but try to keep your recordings. this erases all recordings, all settings, and puts the receiver or dvr into the state where it was when you'll it. We recommend this option before sending a faulty or unwanted device back to DIRECTV. How to recover DVR recordings? You can restore events that have been deleted from the DVR if it was less than 48 hours since they were deleted. Press the DVR button. Select Recycle Bin. Arrow to and select the recording you want to restore. Press the BLUE COLOR button or call back, depending on the remote. How long do DVR recordings last? 24 hours Most of the DVR can support 24 hours and motion detection, record alarm detection methods. How do I find my shows on DirecTV? How to get deleted programs from DirecTV HistoryTurn on TV and DVR device. Press the "Menu" button on the remote. Switch to the menu option "Manage Recordings". Select "History" and find the deleted program within the list. Can overwritten data be recovered? Strictly speaking, it is impossible to recover overwritten files. But, if the file has been archived or the file is jumped when other files have been overwritten, it can be restored. Why did my DVR recordings disappear? Situation 2: Dish DVR missing recordings from an external hard drive. ... This could be due to corruption or virus infection in the external hard drive. However, do not get anxious. If you have lost videos from external HD, you can recover the same with a secure video recovery tool. How can I solve my DVR problem? DVR Troubleshooting Make sure your equipment (TV and cable) is properly connected and powered. Make sure that cable is connected to the socket. Remove objects around the receiver to allow proper ventilation. Update the receiver. Disconnect the receiver and wait at least 60 seconds before connecting it. How do I delete the record history on DirecTV? Press "Select" on "Parental, Fav's & Setup". Now you have a new menu. Using the arrow keys, move the cursor down to "System Setup" and press the "Select" button on "System Setup". The Setup menu appears. Arrow down to "Reset". Press "Select" when the cursor is on the "Reset" selection and another menu is displayed. You can go to the "other DVR"... Go to the other DVR or DVR in your home, and if they are still on the old menus go to Menu> Settings and Help> Settings> Interior home and turn off "Share Recordings". In the new menu you just have to go to Menu> Settings > Entire home. How to transfer DVR recordings to my computer? First, start the video software that came with the video capture card or video software you selected. Then hit your DVR. You will then see the content of your DVR playing in the window of this software. Finally, you just hit records to transfer the DVR video to your PC. Can you hide the recordings on Directv?
