New hollywood ringtone 2019 download

By Andrew Mikael Although most phones come with several built-in options for ringtones, downloading new ringtones is a great way to customize the phone or just provide the device with more aesthetic sounds. An over-the-air Internet connection lets you download ringtones, but phones without an Internet connection can still receive new ringtones and other notification sounds via a computer transfer, multimedia message or temporary network connection. Many phones come with a USB connection cable for transferring data from a computer system, allowing you to download ringtones on an Internet-capable computer instead. If the phone appears as a removable hard drive, simply drag compatible audio files to the phone's memory to store them for use as ringtones. You may need to place the files in a specific folder, such as the Ringtones folder on the root directory of Android devices. Ensure the file format is compatible with the phone before making the transfer. Most phones work with common audio formats, such as AAC, MP3 and WMA. If you can't access the Internet but have a service subscription including SMS messages, some ringtone providers can send new ringtones to your phone using text messaging. Websites such as Bongotones, Phonezoo and Tones7 all offer SMS ringtone packaging. Depending on your phone's SMS service, using this method may incur additional cost for receiving a multimedia message. Some similar services only send links to ringtones via text and still require an Internet connection to access the full file. Some phones without over-the-air Internet access can still connect to the Internet temporarily using built-in Wi-Fi or Bluetooth features. Connect to a Wi-Fi hotspot, or share a computer's Internet connection with the phone to download ringtones and access other online services. These connections do not incur additional charges or service rates since they use existing Internet connections. Many mobile phones have recording software for storing sounds on the device, and some recording programs create files usable as ringtones. Look for a recording program in your phone's "Utilities" menu, or install one from the iOS App Store or Android Market. Use this method to record a piece of overheard music or to set voice messages as ringtones. By Christell York TracFone offers prepaid talk, text, and web services with no contracts. This service is customizable with ringtones. Ringtones replace the default sound that alerts you to a call with a song of your choice. TracFone ringtones vary in cost and TracFone also charges an additional Web access charge of 0.5 units per minute of access. The total cost of the ringtone will be the cost of the tone plus the cost of the time it takes to download it. The steps to download a ringtone to your phone will vary by the type of phone. Open the Internet browser on your phone. Scroll to "Downloads" using the arrows, and select "OK." Scroll to "Ringtones," and click "OK." Select the category of ringtone you would like within the "Category" menu and press "OK." Select the specific ringtone you want using the arrow keys, and press "OK." Highlight "Buy" and press "OK" after reviewing your selection. Click the link provided in the "Thank you" screen to download the ringtone. Click "Yes" in the confirmation screen. Press the "Power/End" button to exit the ringtone screen after the "Saved" screen appears. You may also press "Launch" to hear your downloaded ringtone. If you've gotten sick of the ringtones that come with your Android phone or iPhone, it's easy enough to buy new ones. But before you do that, there are a number of sites where you can get free ringtones. We've rounded up some of the best. Will My Phone Support All Ringtones? If you own an Android device, things are simple. You can download ringtones to your Android phone directly, since it supports MP3 files as ringtones. You can even create your own custom ringtones for Android if you want. RELATED: How to Create Custom Ringtones for Your Android Phone With iPhone, things are a little different. Most of the sites we've included in this article let you download MP3 files. But, the iPhone requires ringtones to be in their own AAC format, and they have an .m4r file extension. You can use MP3 ringtones, but you'll have to download them to a PC and convert them before you can use them on your iPhone. We've got a full guide on adding custom ringtones to your iPhone that covers how to do that conversion in iTunes and then transfer the ringtones to your phone. You can even use that same technique to make ringtones out of your own music or sounds. RELATED: How to Add Custom Ringtones to Your iPhone Is Downloading Ringtones from the Internet Safe? That all depends on where you get them, and which ones you download. There are plenty of shady websites on the Internet that try to lure you in with free ringtones. A good test is to see if the website is full of ads or asks you for money. Another common tactic is that websites will show you some ringtones, but when you click the link, the site tries to download something else. Always pay attention to the file extension to see if you're downloading the file that you requested. An executable file extension (exe, msi, dmg, apk) is a huge red flag. Then there is the issue of legality. Most websites have a mix of ringtones, some legal and some not. Obviously, if you're getting ringtones for songs from the last several decades, they're probably not not legal, and we would recommend that you stay away from them. It would be safer to buy ringtones like that or, if you already own the song, to make your own ringtone from it. So, with that out of the way, here are our top websites for downloading ringtones. Zedge Zedge hosts a variety of user-created ringtones. You can search for ringtones on the site, but the site offers no other real organization—there are no categories to browse. As you keep scrolling, more and more ringtones are loaded onto the screen for you to choose from. You can preview ringtones on the main page or the dedicated ringtone page where you also have the option to download them. Zedge also offers apps for iOS and Android which surprisingly have better interfaces and let you browse categories. Notification Sounds Notification Sounds is not the typical ringtone website. It's a place where you can get ringtones similar to the ones you expect to be pre-loaded to your phone by your phone manufacturer. The ringtones on the website are organized by categories or tags, and there are plenty of both to explore. The handy preview option lets you listen to ringtones quickly, even on mobile devices. Once you find a ringtone that you like, you can download an MP3 version (for Android devices) or an M4R version (for iPhones). If you have Android, you can download the ringtone directly to your phone. If you have an iPhone, you'll have to use iTunes to transfer the ringtone to your device. One thing to keep in mind about Notification Sounds is that most of the ringtones they host are meant to be used for notifications, not ringtones, so they're pretty short. If you're looking for ringtones for calls, the selection is more limited. Melofania Melofania is an amazing website for ringtones with a ton of features. Not only can you browse the music of various artists and download their ringtones, but you create ringtones from YouTube videos or even upload your own music. You can find your favorite ringtones using the search function on the top, and then preview the ringtone on its page. You'll find a few different variations of the ringtones to choose from. Once you've selected a ringtone you like, click the Android or iPhone button and the ringtone for the specific format you need. And once again, Android users can download directly to their phone, but iOS users will need to use their computer and iTunes as an intermediary. Important Note: As we've mentioned, downloading ringtones made from popular songs is infringing on copyright. Therefore we recommend that you use Melofania only for the music that you legally own and have the right to modify and use as a ringtone. MyTinyPhone MyTinyPhone has a gigantic collection of ringtones totaling over half a million. The ringtones are neatly organized into multiple categories like Jazz, Rock, Themes, Voice, Fun, and more—making them easy to browse. Each ringtone has a star rating and a view count, which makes it quick to filter popular ringtones. One small annoyance, though, is that you can't just click the big play button shown on the category pages to sample the ringtone. Clicking it takes you to that ringtone's page, where you can then listen to it. It's kind of a drag. Still, it's worth putting up with for the huge selection and solid categorization. You can download ringtones in either MP3 or M4R format. Audiko Audiko is another popular website that lets you download user-created ringtones. It also lets you create your own ringtones by uploading your favorite songs. On the homepage, you'll see the most popular ringtones, SMS ringtones, and the top artists in your country. Scroll down a bit and you'll find links to popular genres that you can check out. When you open a specific ringtone's page, you'll see an option to listen to the tone and its variations. If you like the ringtone, you can click the download button to start the process. Unfortunately, you'll have to create an account to download ringtones from Audiko, but the upside is that all your downloaded ringtones are saved in your account, and you can download the iOS or Android versions for them anytime you like. Audiko does have an Android App, which is free to use and does all the things that you can do on the website. A paid iOS app is also available for $0.99, but we suggest you not bother with that. It has the same functionality as the free website, and you're going to need your computer and iTunes to transfer the ringtone to your iPhone anyway. They include: Mobile 9 Zedge Notification Sounds MyTinyPhone A selection of free apps for Android and iPhones contain large categories of ringtones. Some even walk you through making a ringtone from a song you already own. Download these apps at Google Play for Android phones and the App Store for iPhones. Ringtone Maker Audiko Ringtones Free Zedge Ringtones Hip Hop & Rap Ringtones An audio editor is a type of software program that makes it easy to manipulate your music files in several ways. It includes the option to make short audio clips that are ideal for ringtones. If you have a few songs in your music library that you'd like to transform into ringtones, then an audio editor is a must. Audacity is the best known of these programs. Before you download and use Audacity, be sure to review its privacy policy to ensure you're comfortable with its terms. Rather than using a full-blown audio editor, you can quickly make ringtones using an audio file splitter. This type of program doesn't have all the bells and whistles of an audio editor, but if all you want to do is make ringtones, then this type of audio tool is a good alternative. With a little bit of work, you can create free ringtones for your iPhone using tunes you already bought from iTunes without having to pay for Apple's ringtone conversion service. Thanks for letting us know! Tell us why! Most Phones: Settings > Sound > Phone Ringtone. Choose the tone, and press OK or Save. Samsung: Settings > Sounds and vibration > Ringtone. Choose your ringtone, and press the back arrow. This article explains how to set your ringtone on a variety of Android phones as well as how to download new ringtones and transfer them to your phone. The instructions below apply no matter who made your Android phone: Samsung, Google, Huawei, Xiaomi, etc. Depending on the model of Android phone you have, you can choose from several stock ringtones. Here's how to find and browse through them: Open your phone's Settings app. Tap on Sound. The sound settings contain all sorts of options to adjust the different volume levels and tones on your device. These vary slightly based on your device and the version of Android that it's running, but they should all be fairly similar. Find the Phone Ringtone option and select it. Depending on which version of Android you're using, the Phone Ringtone option might be under the Advanced section. If so, tap on the down arrow to open it up. From here, you see a list of ringtones or a list of ringtone categories available on your device. You can tap a ringtone once to hear what it sounds like. When you find one you want to use as your default ringer, tap OK or Save to save the selection. If you own a Samsung device, the process for setting a ringtone is a little different. Here's how to do it: Launch the Settings app, then tap Sounds and vibration. Find Ringtone in the list and tap it. Choose the ringtone you want to set for your phone. Finally, tap the back arrow at the bottom of your screen to set your new ringtone. You can tap the Home button to dismiss the Settings app. The simplest and least expensive way to get new ringtones is to transfer them over from your computer. Most Android devices can use regular music files as ringtones. While plenty of devices accept other formats, sticking to MP3 and OGG is generally a good idea. Connect your Android device to your computer via a USB cable. Usually, you can use the cable that's part of your charger. On your Android device, swipe down from the top of the screen to see your notifications. You should see a system notification stating that your device is connected via USB for charging. Tap that notification. A new dialog box opens up and allows you to choose what the USB is used for. Choose File transfer. Your computer might automatically open a window showing the phone's storage. If it does, skip to Step 6. If your computer doesn't automatically navigate to the phone's storage, open Windows Explorer or whichever file browser is available on your system. Navigate to where your device is mounted. This is the same location your PC displays connected USB drives. On Windows, it's This PC. In your Android device's internal storage, find and open the Ringtones folder. Copy any music files you want to use as ringtones into this folder. When you return to your phone's Sound settings, you should find them listed among the default system ringtones. If your phone's default ringtones don't offer the level of customization you want, go to Google Play and do a quick search for ringtones. The search results include many apps—some paid and some free. Here are two free apps worth considering: Make your phone a conversation starter with the free ringtones in the ZEDGE app. It also includes notification sounds, app icons, alarms, and free wallpapers. You can download and use a high-quality ringtone for each member of your family or for each of your friends. Categories include rock, rap, and country, plus classic ringtones and sound effects. Assign the ringtones to individual contacts from within the app. This app allows you to use up to 30 seconds of a song in your media library and create a ringtone from it. It takes a little while to get used to the interface, but once you make a few ringtones, the process is easy and effective. Thanks for letting us know! Tell us why!
