Morrowind/Shutterstock.com You are scrolling through social media, and you meet someone else about "HODL" is a slang linked to the cryptocurrency that stands for the word "hold" misspelled. It often refers to the maintenance of cryptographic activities that you possess for a prolonged period, even during a highly volatile market movement. "Hodl" is intended to encourage people not to sell impulsively when a cryptocurrency drops dramatically or gets up to become highly profitable to sell. "HODL" also acts as an acronym for "Hold on for care life". You will often see the term in various forums of cryptocurrency and social media circles. Some influencers also encourage their followers to "hold" has been used in finance for a long time as part of the buy-and-hold strategy. This method of investment involves the purchase of a financial asset and the estate for an indefinite period of time. This is related to the fact that an investor should not be influenced by short-term market movements and look at long-term vision. The term "HODL" comes from a post made in 2013 on the Bitcointalk cryptocurrency forum shortly after a move from the Chinese government caused the price of Bitcoin to fall drastically within a day. An intoxicated member typed a post entitled "I AM HODLING" in response, detailing his general fortune with the investment and his desire to continue holding his assets in the future. Shortly after that incident, the term "hodling" became common in the community of cryptocurrency enthusiast. He made his way into memes and social media and became a way to signal the desire of a proprietary token to hang on their assets. "Hodl" and Cryptocurrencies The biggest reason why "hodl" has become such a popular term is the general volatility of cryptocurrency prices. Many cryptocurrency tokens, even relatively stable as Bitcoin and Ethereum, often have very volatile market fluctuations. The cost of these tokens can fall 100% one month and then rise 300% in the next months. The prices of cryptocurrency are also prone to whale movements (a term for people or organizations that hold a very large amount of a particular token). If even a whale decides to sell a particular token, they could reservoir the price entirely. "HODL" is considered as a way to fight these fluctuations in price. An asset-holder following the strategy does not sell, even when the market changes. Many people who "HODL" do not even pay close attention to the daily market movement of criptologists, preferring insteada long-term view of their tokens. Why people "Hodl?" Andreanicolini/Shutterstock.com One of the biggest reasons why people see "hodl" as astrategy is their confidence in basic technology and the case of use at the base of it. bitcoin and most other cryptocurrencies are based on a technology called blockchain, which has many oi, including a way to make secure and anonymous payments on the internet. Some people believe that bitcoin is the future of all financial transactions rather than currencies fiat as dollars and euros, for many cryptocurrency owners, "hodling" is an intriguing perspective, the value of a single bitcoin has passed from less than a dollar when it is ocited more than a decade ago to five digits in recent years. Despite the high volatility of the market, many cryptocurrency owners believe that buying cryptocurrency is equivalent to gambling. Many people also believe that cryptocurrencies values are better when people buy and do not sell their tokens. This is why "hodl" is a term so oato in the community" is often told to beginners who might be afraid to hold such a volatile resource. 'HODL' fights what encryption users call 'FUD', which stands for 'paura, uncertainty and doubt.' ud may include anything from opponents to negative press governments on the issue of cryptocurrency, oare «HODL» and not to other activities. If you want to oate the term "hodl", reserve it for conversations on these tokens or you might be misunderstood. If you get into people who say "hodl", there's a good chance you've met with cryptocurrency enthusiasts. It doesn't sound like a word that comes to mind, so what the hell does that mean? gpoy stands for: gratuitous picture of yourself The acronym is almost always followed by an animated photo or gif that is a selfie or image of someone or something that resembles a situation, action or character similar to the user who is sharing it. The acronym is mainly used to describe visual content on the popular tumblr microblogging platform and is considered an integral part of community culture, is not very oato on other popular social networks such as facebook and twitter, although you can meet him in these places. Â When it comes to tumblr culture, gpoy is rarely oated in complete sentencesâ and is mainly used alone without other words or information. the photo or gif communicates the message. when a photo or a photois so recognizable that you can be used to symbolize you or your life in any way, then it is appropriate to include GPOY in caption. See it as...acronym equivalent to say: "This is the way I feel / what I look like now." example #1 an image of a dog or a sad-looking cat with gpoy caption. This lets people know that you share the feeling in the photo. example #2 as an alternative, you could take a photo of yourself that looks sad and then tag it with gpoy. according to your meme know, the acronym gpoy can be traced until 2008, when users of tumblr tag posts with gpoyw on Wednesday, the publication of a free photo on Wednesday was a weekly ritual for several users of tumblr, where it is more often used by the younger crowd. fans of tumblr hate it to describe other memes, photos, webcomics, gifs, drawings or other visual aspect. Despite its popularity, the acronym is one of those rare that remain popular within a community of social media and is rarely seen anywhere else online. You can try your best to interpret the acronym kmsl by yourself, but it's so dark that you'd probably have fun with it. kmsl is about to kill myself laughing confused? You have the right to be! this acronym tricks you into thinking that I was two separate words (I myself) because this is what the abbreviation seems to imply. kmsl is a variation of lol. is an acronym parody that is used when a person wants to convey and exaggerate their amused reaction during a text-based conversation. in these days, the less common variations of lol, such as kmsl, can be more effective in expressing fun in a world where lol was so overwhelmed that it lost a lot of its meaning, even if no one ever kills himself literally with laughter, they can oare kmsl to show how much something seems fun for them. Whoever is at the end of receiving the kmsl reaction will probably get the hint that the person reacting is extremely entertained and therefore behave very fun behind their screen. example 1 friend #1: I dressed too quickly this morning and I didn't even notice there was a pair of pants attached to my pants until I went to class. friend #2: kmsl! in this example, friend #2 uses kmsl as a standalone reaction to friend #1 message. in many cases, nothing more is necessary than the or of the acronym all alone. night? friend #2: Yeah, I've been at kmsl all the time. a show like thisIn the second example above, Friend #2 uses KMSL in a sentence to describe a reaction they had in the past. You can also use it in current and future tensions (such as "I am kmsl" and "I will be kmsl"). The exact interpretation for KMSL (Killing Myself Laughing) is sometimes used interchangeably with the acronym KML because KML does awaythe extra letter that is not necessary for the word Me. KML has another interpret KML as Kill My Life, which has a definition similar to FML (F* My Life.) KMSL is one of those acronyms that is part of a larger group of creative and exaggerated variations of LOL. [Bleep] [[Bleep] [Bleep more than ROFL. PTFO is an almost impossible acronym to interpret accurately only by looking at it for the first time. To make it even more confused, PTFO has two possible ways that can be interpreted. PTFO stands for one of the following phrases: The F* OutPlay The F [Bleep] Both interpretations include an F-bomb but are used in completely different ways. When PTFO is used to mean "Passed the F* Out", it means that a person is so exhausted that he fell into a deep state of sleep. Alternatively, it may imply that a person has been knocked unconscious after the impact from a blow, a punch, a fall, a body control or some other physical force. The word F helps to emphasize the intensity of the unconscious state of a person. Anyone could say that "they have overcome" by fatigue, which gets the right point through right well, but when they say that "they have passed the f* out," you know it's serious! Example 2 Dude #1: "Why don't you answer my messages?" Dude #2: "I'm sorry. I've been PTFO in the last 10 hours." Example 2 Dude #1: "Did you see Jones hit during the game last night?" Dude #2: "It was PTFO." Both examples above show how PTFO can be used synonymous with sleeping or unconscious words. When PTFO is used to mean Play The FBB(Bleep) Objective, it is almost always done in the chat area of a multiplayer video game. A player could use the acronym to tell distracted players to focus on how they have to work together to level and advance through the game rather than waste time on unimportant things that are only relevant to the individual player. As the alternative interpretation of PTFO, the word Fused here to emphasize the seriousness of the sentence. a player is much more likely to grab the attention of other players by saying "play the fing goal" than simply saying "play the goal." example 1 player #1: "woot! another kill! player #2: "ptfo! we need other flags"! example 2 friend #1: "Hey, do you know any good playmates? my search for ptfo players continues." friend #2: "I know a lot of non-PTFO players. but I'll make you a ride with 1 or 2 vouchers" the first example shows how ptfo can be used as a request. the second oa as descriptor descriptor descriptor descriptor descriptor. If there is, it's a good chance they're referring to Play The Fing Objective. On the other hand, if there is a reference to sleep, exhaustion, illness, injury or other unpleasant physical or mental states, it has exceeded the FBB could be the right interpretation. Your best bet is to examine the context of the message containing PTFO and perhaps the entire conversation to give you clues about which version of PTFO is used, used,
