Supposing you have a [fix_size] character rather than a char *, you can use a single creative macro to do it all at the same time with a < cout < as the order ("piuttosto% s the unjoined key", ", " Printf Style Format "). If you are working with embedded systems, this method will also allow you to leave Malloc and the family of large functions * Printf * as SNPRINTF () (this holds DietliBC to complain of * printf also) #include // For the example of writing // Note: you need to check if offset == Size buf (BUF) after use all #Decharcpy / * Then we can add at the end of a string * / \ const char * s, \ * a [] = { _va_args __, null }, \ * ss = a; \ while ((s = * ss ++)) \ while ((* s) && (++ offset
