Many fishing piers, fishing docks and public parks offer pamphlets and brochures that include local fishing reports. This level of stocking is expected to increase catch rates for walleyes. DEC also plans to continue the special regulations for walleye, 18-inch minimum size limit and a three-fish daily creel limit, which are geared toward producing a trophy walleye fishery. To obtain a copy of the survey, contact Brad Hammers at New York State DEC, Bureau of Fisheries, 6274 East Avon-Lima Road, Avon, N.Y. 14414. Pheasant hunting While many hunting seasons are already open, a big day for small game hunters comes Saturday when pheasant hunting season opens in the Southern Tier. DEC will release 30,000 adult pheasants across the state prior to opening day and during the season at various locations that are open to public hunting. Many county sportsman federations, including Chemung, supplement the state stocking program with their own ringneck releases. For a list of sites where pheasants will be released, go to dec.ny.gov/outdoor/9349.html.
