Let's face it. Screens are one of the first things to get corrupted when you release your MacBook. I know how scary it can be because computer screen replacements are not a joke. They cost you hundreds of dollars and sometimes they're not worth it. So are you spending that many $$$$ on a screen replacement really worth it or should you just get another MacBook instead? Let's find out! It is not worth replacing a MacBooks screen like a modern Macbook with a retina display screen costing between $455-$755 to replace. $755 is almost the price of the $999 2021 MacBook Air. It is better to buy a new MacBook Pro with money instead as MacBooks only have a lifespan of 5-8 years. If your MacBook has been with you for a long time, it must have definitely seen a lot of wear and tear. Apart from the damage caused by falls or superficial malfunctions, all the dust that is collected from your Mac over the years causes a lot of internal damage without us realizing it. So, if you use your MacBook Pro for some time and you break the screen, I would suggest you not opt for a screen replacement as it is not worth it. Your best bet would be to get a new MacBook from Amazon or a refurbished laptop from Apple. Read on to find out why replacing a MacBook Pro screen is not worth it, full of useful information about the different levels that Apple will replace a MacBook. Why isn't it worth changing your MacBook Pro Screen? A MacBook Pro Retina screen replacement would typically cost you between $455-$755. Add that labor costs to check your laptop and shipping costs (if applicable). For this cost, it is not worth getting a screen replacement for your MacBook when a MacBook with an M1 chip is a similar cost of repair. Let me explain why! There are many factors that go into deciding whether or not you should get a screen replacement. Let's take a look at them and understand why your Macbook with a broken screen is a lost cause now. Why Replacing a MacBook Screen is a Waste of Money If your MacBook warranty has expired and you are taken to an Apple store for a retina screen replacement, you would be quoted at least $455 for the new screen for a previous model and $100 for the job. This cost of $555 is more than half of what a new Macbook would cost you. A screen replacement for a MacBook Pro falls below Level 4 of Apple Repair. This level meets all the problems your computer might have and is the most expensive category of Apple Repair. If you have abandoned the MacBook Pro, chances are many other internal parts of the MacBook could be damaged which are not visible on the outside. Just get a screen replacement won't solve all potential problems means that it would cost you more than just the costs of replacing the screen for the entire repair. Each machine has a lifespan. If the MacBook is an older model so soon it would be outdated and you would need to switch to a newer model. So instead of getting its screen screenSell your MacBook Pro under its existing conditions on sites like Ebay and add some money to buy a new MacBook Pro. You can see Apple repair levels from Mele's official website. Are you frustrated when you can't access your MacBook? Find out how to access a blocked Macbook so you will never be stressed out in my article again. How much does it cost to replace a MacBook Pro screen? There is no cost for a screen replacement if the problem is covered by a warranty, AppleCare + or consumer law. However, if the problem is not falling, a screen replacement for a MacBook Pro with Retina Display will cost you anywhere between $455-$755,$755 for the most modern screens and $455 for older models. Without warranty or applecare +. Your costs for a MacBook screen replacement Pro will bring you back from anywhere between $455-$755 in an Apple Store. Plan an appointment at an Apple Store from here to check your screen. Check here if your MacBook is covered by AppleCare+. The exact cost of screen replacement is calculated weighing in factors such as the model of MacBook model, year and Apple repair levels. For example, replacing the screen for a MacBook Pro with Retina display from 2015 until now will cost you at least $450 this is the MacBook I own and is currently selling only for $310-$499 on eBay. You can buy one cheaper than the cost of screen replacement! For a Macbook Air 13 TM since 2010-2017, the screen replacement would respond to you for at least $350. To help you understand Apple repair levels that determine repair costs, I explained them for you below. A What are the levels of repair of apples? Apple Repair Tier This TIER corrects minor parts such as cables, brackets, screws, resection etc. It costs a total of $455, including labor expenses $100. The Apple 2 repair level is about replacing smaller assemblies and tables on your computer. For example, power card or inverter assembly card etc. It costs a total of $555, including labor expenses $100. Apple Repair Tier 3 A hard disk replacement falls under Tier 3.
