Once upon a time in hollywood movie full

Hollywood has produced some proud masterpieces that we will never forget, but it has also had a lot of failures. We're not just talking bombs at the box office, but films that are so embarrassing to those who created them that they have actively stopped you from seeing them. All hope is not lost though! Thanks to the powers that be and YouTube, you can still find a lot of these online. So which movie disasters have you been missing? Here are 10 movies Hollywood doesn't want you to see. 1. Star Wars Holiday Special | Source: CBS Before the prequels were even thought of, George Lucas had already started his downward spiral with this telefilm. The special aired on CBS on November 17, 1978 and hasn't aired since. The special shows Chewbacca rushing back home to celebrate Life Day on his home planet with his wife, son, and father. Yes, he supposedly has a family. All of the main characters from the film make an appearance although it mostly focuses on Chewie's family. It has many appearances by celebrities including Bea Arthur, Diahann Carroll, and more. You can't buy the movie anywhere, but you can find it on YouTube. Why? Well George Lucas wants us all to pretend this never happened. "If I had the time and a sledgehammer," Lucas said, according to Salon, "I would track down every copy of that show and smash it." Instead he tried to buy all the master copies of it so no one could distribute it. 2. The Fantastic Four (1994) The Fantastic Fo intentions of releasing the film, but of course the film slipped out and copies were passed around at comic conventions. The low-budget film included Doctor Doom. There is also a documentary called Doomed! The Untold Story of Roger Corman's Fantastic Four about the whole disaster. 3. Skatetown, U.S.A. | Source: Rastar Pictures Actors have to start somewhere, and Patrick Swayze started here. The film also featured Scott Baio and Maureen McCormick telling the story of rival skaters coming together for a roller disco contest. The movie flopped, and according to IMDb, the movie was never licensed on video, cassette, or DVD. However, you can catch some of the clips on YouTube. McCormick wrote about the movie in her book, Here's the Story: Surviving Marcia Brady and Finding My True Voice saying, "Like a disco, there was a lot of cocaine being done on the set. Many people were open about it." 4. Song of the South Song of the Song of the South Song of the S rather you forget about its racist past. One way of doing that is to hide this film. The movie shows a former slave named Uncle Remus telling a story about Br'er Fox who tricks Br'er Bear. It is full of subservient black characters that are terribly drawn. Unlike other movies on the list, this one was actually successful and received an Oscar for its song, "Zip-a-Dee-Doo-Dah." So what happened to this movie? According to Slate, it's been in Disney's vault for years in order to keep it from being released. 5. The Day The Clown Cried | Source: Europa Studios Jerry Lewis plays a clown that gets imprisoned by the Nazis after making fun of Hitler. It sounds like a crazy premise, and it's no surprise it didn't really work out. He not only acted in it, but directed and wrote it. Lewis has the only copy of the movie to be preserved at the Library of Congress according to IMDb. The film remains a touchy subject for Lewis. A reporter asked him in 2008 when he'll release the movie. According to IMDb, he reportedly answered, "None of your goddamn business!" 6. Don's Plum | Source: Polo Pictures Entertainment Leonardo DiCaprio and Tobey Maguire have some big movies on their resumes, but they probably would rather you forget about this project. The story follows Los Angeles teenagers that meet every day at a local diner to talk about their miserable lives. So why haven't we heard about it? DiCaprio and Maguire filed a lawsuit to block the movie from being released. As a result, the movie can't be released commercially in the USA or Canada. 7. Hippie Shake Hippie Shake | Source: StudioCanal This movie is an adaptation of Richard Neville's memoir about his experience with 1960s counterculture. According to IMDb, this movie was written to offset the failure of the movie Green Zone, but insurers reportedly stipulated the original camera negative be destroyed. Part of the problem with the movie was probably due to the drama happening on set. The writer and director left while it was being edited thanks to creative differences. 8. Let It Be | Source: Apple Corps There are a bunch of documentaries about The Beatles, so you would think it would be hard to go wrong with this one. However, this movie is about the band trying to recapture its chemistry while beginning to fall apart. Of course, in real life they failed to do so, so the movie from being released on DVD not wanting fans to watch the band's tumultuous breakup. 9. Can I Do It...'Til I Need Glasses? Can I Do It...'Til I Need Glasses? | Source: Dauntless Productions The movie has a series of skits that basically revolve around sex. Robin Williams had a short appearance in it, but was edited out of the final cut. However, once he began getting popular, the movie was re-released with his scene in it right before Popeye was coming out. Of course, to promote it they used Williams in the trailer even though he is in the movie for less than two minutes. According to IMDb he sued the producers over this issue and the whole thing was settled out of court for $5 million. 10. Cocksucker Blues Cocksucker Blues Source: Robert Frank Here is another band that really hated its documentary. The movie went backstage with the Rolling Stone, it was shown at the Museum of Modern Art during a two-week festival. Like many hidden film gems, you can find it on YouTube. Check out Entertainment Cheat Sheet on Facebook! What makes a movie great? Why do some stand the test of time while others slowly (or rather quickly) lose their value? For some films, it's the emotion the story invokes. Sometimes an actor's performance is so unforgettable, it captures our attention. Occasionally a film is so visually stunning, it can't be forgotten. I put together a collection of the 30 best movies of all time. To warn you in advance, this isn't the usual film snob list of black and white classics and foreign films meant to show off my knowledge of classical cinema. These are the movies we watch because we want to, not because we're told to.30. Avatar (2009) Avatar is one of the most visually beautiful movies ever made. Even people who complain about special effects in movies dropped their jaws upon seeing it for the first time. This film pushed modern cinematic technology into a new age, ushering in the age of stereoscopic 3D. Beneath its beauty, the film features a cross-species love story and a social message. Avatar is a must see for any movie fan. Best Quote: Jake Sully (Sam Worthington) "I became a Marine for the hardship. Told myself that I can pass any test a man can pass. All I ever wanted was a single thing worth fighting for." 29. Scarface (1983) There are a lot of gangster movies out there, but Scarface is easily the most quoted. The story of Cuban immigrant turned maniacal gangster Tony Montana is gritty from front to back. The chainsaw scene in the beginning still gives me quivers. As he gains more power, his greed starts to get the best of him. He makes a few bad decisions that lead to the one of the best death scenes in movie history. Best Quote: Tony Montana "You need people like me so you can point your fuckin' fingers and say, 'That's the bad guy.' So... what does that make you? Good? You're not good. You just know how to hide, how to lie. Me, I don't have that problem. Me, I always tell the truth. Even when I lie. So say good night to the bad guy!"28. The Notebook (2004) In the interest of full disclosure, I have to admit I've never seen it, she tries to convince me to watch it. The basic premise is a boy falls in love with a girl. They have a budding romance, some conflict gets in the way, and they end up together when they're older. This movie is the bar in which many women measure a man. Best Quote: Noah (Ryan Gosling) says, "I am nothing special; just a common thoughts, and I've led a common life. There are no monuments dedicated to me and my name will soon be forgotten. But in one respect I have succeeded as gloriously as anyone who's ever lived: I've loved another with all my heart and soul; and to me, this has always been enough."27. Audition (1999) I judge horror movies by how many full length cartoons I have to watch afterwards so I can go to sleep, and Audition is easily a 10 toon film. A widower auditions women for his you're adverse to older movies, this may be the one to change your mind. Best Quote: Igor: "You're putting me on." Frankenstein: "No, it's pronounced 'Eye-gor.'"25. The One Percent (2006) The One Percent is the second of Johnson & Johnson heir Jamie Johnson's documentaries chronicling a lifestyle that 99% of us will never have. Born rich, Jamie gives the majority of the film opposing it. With the crash of the artificial housing market soon after and the Occupy movement popping up 5 years later, it's easy to see what he's afraid of.Best Quote: Jamie Johnson: "The top 1% of Americans, like my family and me, own roughly 40% of individuals combined."24. Cinderella Man (2005) James Braddock (Russell Crowe) a washed up boxer who fights impossible odds to compete for the heavyweight championship is one of cinema's most memorable underdogs. Director Ron Howard expertly recreates the 1930s setting to draw you into this "based on a true story" sports drama filled with award winning actors. Cinderella Man is everything you want in a sports movie. Best Quote: James Braddock "I have to believe that when things are bad I can change them." 23. Bad Boys (1995) Hate on Michael Bay all you want, the man knows how to make an entertaining movie. Filled with flashy car chases and spectacular shoot outs, this is a movie that you can sit down and watch anytime it's on television, no matter how far in it is. Best Quote: Marcus Burnett (Lawrence) "You made me think you were gonna shoot me for a minute." Mike Lowrey (Smith) "I was." 22. Unforgiven (1992) Before he went crazy and started talking to chairs, Clint Eastwood was responsible for some of the most classic Westerns in American cinema. In Unforgiven, he plays Will Munny, a retired gunslinger who lets his old friend Ned (Morgan Freeman) convince him to collect a bounty from some hookers. On the way, they encounter other bounty hunters and a hardnosed sheriff (Gene Hackman). It takes a lot for Munny to snap, but once he does, you'll be glad you're watching from a distance. Best Quote: Will Munny "All right, I'm gonna kill him, but I'm gonna kill his friends, and burn his damn house down."21. Leon: The Professional (1994) This tale of professional assassin Léon (Luc Besson) is dramatic and heartfelt. He takes in a young girl (Natalie Portman) whose drugged out parents are killed by their psychotic dealer (Gary Oldman) then proceeds to teach her the tricks of the trade while protecting her and seeking vengeance. Léon: The Professional is one of those movies where you can't help but side with the killer, who deep down has a heart of gold. Best Quote: Léon "The rifle is the first weapon you learn how to use, because it lets you keep your distance from the client. The knife, for example, is the last thing you learn." 20. Love & Basketball (2000) While many romance movies are difficult for men to watch, Love & Basketball goes a long way into drawing men into this "chick flick" genre by incorporating an underlying sports theme. Quincy (Omar Epps) and Monica (Sanaa Lathan) meet on the basketball court as kids, and their love/hate relationship keeps their lives intersecting as they live their individual dreams of playing pro ball. Best Quote: Monica "It's a trip, you know? When you're a kid, you see the life you want, and it never crosses your mind that it's not gonna turn out that way." 19. The Hurt Locker (2008) War. What is it good for? Fantastic movies. Hurt Locker is a thrilling look at the realities of the Iraq War, and modern warfare in general. It's not a propaganda film. It doesn't take sides. It focuses on the decisions faced by soldiers, specifically SFC William James (Jeremy Renner). Hurt Locker is simultaneously a war movie ever made, showing the good and bad in every soldier.Best Quote: SFC James "You love playing with that. You love playing with all your stuffed animals. You love your Mommy...your Daddy. You love might not seem so special anymore."18. Princess Bride (1987) Fairy tale movies are a dime a dozen. The Princess Bride stands head and shoulders above them all. It's a playful children's movie with plenty for adults to love too. It has everything a fairy tale should: a mysterious protagonist (Cary Elwes), a giant (André the Giant), swordplay, a princess, and a happy ending. The Princess Bride is a reminder of everything that's right about humanity. Best Quote: Westley (Elwes): "If you're in such a hurry, you could lower a rope or a tree branch or find something useful to do." Inigo Montoya (Mandy Patinkin): "I could do that. I have some rope up here, but I do not think you would accept my help, since I am only waiting around to kill you." Westley: "That does put a damper on our relationship."17. Inside Man A cop (Denzel Washington) tries talking down a criminal mastermind (Clive Owen) in the best bank heist movie ever put on film. What makes Inside Man so great is the cat and mouse tension. As the story progresses, you find out this is much more than your average bank robbery. It's not just money these guys are after, and even knowing they get away with it won't take away the shock of seeing how... and why...Best Quote: Dalton Russell (Owen): "This time next week, I'll be sucking down piña coladas in a hot tub with six girls named Amber and Tiffany." Keith Frazier (Washington): "More like taking a shower with two guys named Jamal and Jesus, if you know what I mean. And here's the bad news: that thing you're sucking on? It's not a piña colada!"16. Bill & Ted's Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels outdoing the original movie, but Bogus Journey (1991)Godfather 2 is often cited in the argument of sequels of the argument of the argument of sequels of the argument the models of slacker youth way before Beavis and Butthead. The first Bill & Ted movie most triumphantly explored time travel in a phone booth, but the second movie ups the ante, as the dimwitted pair battle death on a journey through heaven & hell. Beneath the schlock, Bogus Journey is a lighthearted look at a scary subject. Best Quote: Bill "And over here, our bass player, the Duke of Spook, the Doc of Shock, The Man with No Tan, please say hello to Death himself, the Grim Reaper."15. Mr. & Mrs. Smith (2005) This is the movie where Brad Pitt & Angelina Jolie met. Watching their onscreen chemistry, it's easy to see how they've lasted so long. No matter how many times this movie is on TV, it's hard not to watch. Filled with shootouts, explosions, comedy, romance, and flat out sex appeal, Mr. & Mrs. Smith is a spy film with something for everyone. It doesn't make you think; it just invites you to sit, stare, and smile. Best Quote: John Smith (Pitt) "Your aim's as bad as your cooking sweetheart... and that's saying something!" 14 Love Actually (2003) Love Actually follows the intertwining stories of eight British couples dealing with love in very different ways. It's a romantic comedy and a Christmas film, but it is in no way sappy. It's a touching comedy filled with amazing moments. It's impossible to watch this movie without laughing, crying, and falling in love with at least one character. Love Actually is the best romantic comedy ever written. Best Quote: Billy Mack (Bill Nighy) "Hiya kids. Here is an important message from your Uncle Bill. Don't buy drugs. Become a pop star, and they give you them for free!"13. Good Will Hunting (1997) A janitor with an attitude problem (Matt Damon) solves a complicated math problem at MIT, gets sent to a psychiatrist (Robin Williams), and has to choose between his street life and becoming a respected mathematician. Good Will Hunting's is a charming drama with great writing, brilliant acting, and an intelligent story. The movie explores a lot of philosophical angles on the human experience in a way that draws you in. Best Quote: Sean (Williams) "So if I asked you about art, you'd probably give me the skinny on every art book ever written. Michelangelo, you know a lot about him. Life's work, political aspirations, him and the pope, sexual orientations, the whole works, right? But I'll bet you can't tell me what it smells like in the Sistine Chapel. You've never actually stood there and looked up at that beautiful ceiling; seen that."12. Where The Buffalo Roam (1980) While Johnny Depp is often praised for his portrayal of cultural icon Hunter S. Thompson's writings about his adventures with his attorney, Oscar Zeta Acosta. Murray gives a great performance, perfectly capturing everything we love about Thompson, and proving he's much more than just a comedian. Best Quote: Hunter "In my case it's worked." 11. Back to the Future (1985) Back to the Future is a time travel movie packed with memorable characters. Biff (Thomas Wilson) is a quintessential bully with some of the best quotable lines in cinematic history. Doc Brown (Christopher Lloyd) inspired a generation of kids to become scientists. What makes the movie so great, though, is that protagonist Marty McFly (Michael J Fox) is just a normal kid in a crazy situation, and he overcomes. If he can overcome, anyone can. Best Quote: Doc "Don't worry. As long as you hit that wire with the connecting hook at precisely 88 miles per hour, the instant the lightning strikes the tower... everything will be fine."10. Grandma's Boy (2006) Grandma's Boy is an ensemble comedy that hits all the right notes. The story of a 35-year-old video game tester forced to live with his grandma and her Golden Girl roommates, it's literally LOL funny the entire way through. Filled with zany characters played by actors normally confined to bit roles, this movie is a hilarious gem in a pile of modern comedies. Everything about Grandma's Boy is best when viewed high, but works just as well sober.Best Quotes: Jeff (Nick Swardsen) "What does 'high score' mean? New high score' mean? New high score... is that bad? What does that mean? Did I break it?"9. The Shawshank is the best prison movie ever made. Morgan Freeman's narration is so good, it launched him a second career. Andy Dufresne (Tim Robbins) is the kind of protagonist every movie should have. The dialogue and plot as superb. The soundtrack is beautiful. Dufresne dancing in the rain after crawling through miles of sewage is an epic movie moment. You'll be tempted to run outside and dance along with him. Best Quote: Red (Freeman) "When they put you in that cell... and those bars slam home... that's when you know it's for real...A whole life blown away in the blink of an eye. Nothing left but all the time in the world to think about it..."8. Pirates of the Black Pearl (2003) When the teaser for this movie first appeared in theaters, we all had doubts. How in the world could Disney turn a subpar ride into a two hour epic? Three words: Captain. Jack. Sparrow. Johnny Depp's role as a drunken, smart-mouthed, and shockingly resourceful captain without a ship made Pirates an instant classic. With a well-rounded cast, beautiful sets, and a brilliant mix of comedy, action, and drama, Curse of The Black Pearl is everything we love about Disney rolled into a rare live action gem. Best Quote: Captain Jack Sparrow "Me, I'm dishonest. And a dishonest man you can always trust to be dishonest man you can always trust to be dishonest. Honestly. It's the honest ones you want to watch out for. Because you can never predict when they're going to do something incredibly... stupid."7. Network (1976) What makes Network so great is that it's a universally realistic depiction of media in society so he goes live on the air and gives the most epic speech in cinematic history. His brutal honesty makes him an instant icon, reviving his career. The TV network exploits his anti-establishment following for profit. Beale's star power grows until it eventually pops, and he must be disposed of. The message in Network gets more and more important as our digital society progresses. Best Quote: Beale "I don't know what to do about the depression and the inflation and the Russians and the crime in the street. All I know is that first you've got to get up now. I want you TAKE THIS ANYMORE!"6. Braveheart (1995) Braveheart is the best war movie ever made... period. Mel Gibson both directed and starred in this epic film depicting William Wallace's (Gibson) war for Scotland's freedom from English rule. The battles are brutal and graphic. The speeches are inspiring. The cinematography and soundtrack in Braveheart is so moving, you'll find yourself actually enjoying bagpipe music. By the closing credits, you'll find yourself wanting to paint your face blue and scream out "FREEDOOOOMMM!!!" until your last breath. Best Quote: Wallace "Aye, fight and you may die. Run and you'll live... at least a while. And dying in your beds many years from now, would you be willing to trade all the days from this day to that for one chance—just one chance—just one chance to come back here and tell our enemies that they may take our lives, but they'll never take our freedom!"5. Gandhi (1982) Richard Attenborough's three hour biography of Mahatma Gandhi (Ben Kingsley) is the best biopic ever made. Gandhi was a lawyer who freed India from British rule. Where William Wallace fought with his sword, Gandhi fought violence with nonviolence and compassion, becoming one of the most prolific revolutionaries in human history. The film covers as many highlights as possible from his life, showcasing his wisdom how anyone can follow his footsteps. Best Quote: Gandhi "When I despair, I remember that the way of truth and love has always won. There may be tyrants and murderers, and for a time, they can seem invincible, but in the end, they always fall. Think of it: always."4. Caddyshack (1980) Golf is arguably the most boring sport to watch. Caddyshack, a comedy centered on golf, is hands down the funniest movie ever made. Starring an array of comedy legends at the top of their game, it's not only a laugh-a-minute ride, it's not only a laugh-a-minute ride, it's not only a laugh-a-minute ride, a variety of comedy legends at the top of their game, it's not only a laugh-a-minute ride, it's not only a laugh-a-mi (Chevy Chase) "You're rather attractive for a beautiful girl with a great body."3. Dark Knight (2008) When it was announced Heath Ledger would play The Joker in a new Batman movie, The Dark Knight, the internet erupted with fury. "He'll never be as good as Jack Nicholson," we cried. I wish Heath Ledger could have lived to see the collective jaw of the world drop. Ledger's Joker is the best character performance in movie history. The Dark Knight isn't just the best Batman movie. It's one of the undisputed best films ever made. Best Quote: Joker (Ledger) "Do you want to know why I use a knife? Guns are too quick. You can't savor all the... little emotions. You see, in their last moments, people show you who they really are. So in a way, I know your friends better than you ever did. Would you like to know which of them were cowards?"2. The Iron Giant (1999) Don't let the fact that The Iron Giant is an animated film fool you. It is pure cinematic brilliance. It's a sci-fi film featuring a giant alien robot weapon of mass destruction. After crashing into the earth, he's rescued by a young boy named Hogarth (Eli Marienthal), and they develop a friendship. The film approaches war and world destruction from the eyes of a child. It makes you fall in love with a robot... and then it breaks your heart. If you're not crying by the end of this movie, you're the robot. Best Quote: Hogarth (Marienthal) "Oh, here. This is Superman. He's a lot like you. Crash-landed on Earth, didn't know what he was doing... but he only uses his powers for good, never for evil. Remember that." 1. Forrest Gump (1994) Forrest Gump is the best movie ever made. It spans generations to tell the fictional story of the most likeable, honest, caring, and genuinely good person this world will ever see. If everyone in this world had even a fraction of Gump's heart, we'd solve all the world's problems. The soundtrack is a classic. Tom Hanks is amazing. Forrest continuously overcomes adversity throughout the movie. His life is comprised of every heroic act in the news on any given day. From the first second to the last credit, everything about this movie is flawless. You can watch it 100 times and never tire of it. Forrest Gump is the reason movies exist. Best Quote: Forrest "Stupid is as stupid does."
