Yes! Features of GroundSchool QUESTION FAA ACTUAL AND REALISTS (current for 2021 - 2022 and continuously updated) as you will see on your acutal exam and is fully compliant with FAA Airman Certification Standards (ACS). Learn more about how our GroundSchool programs and apps have superior learning content that leads to better study, testing and learning outcomes. IFR is difficult. The knowledge test should not be... With a minimum of time and costs, you can ACE your FAA Instrument Rating (IFR) knowledge test (written) using our GroundSchool app. (Free Trial! Download below.) The issue of an instrument evaluation is a good idea. It will make you a safer and more capable driver even if you never fly in real instrument conditions. Congratulations on your choice to consider training that, more than any other single differentiator, sets a safe driver apart. Characteristics of GroundSchool ATTUAL QUESTION. The answers and explanations were written by highly experienced flight instructors and professional pilots. All required charts and figures are included. At this point, you are familiar with the FAA Knowledge test format and probably appreciate the advantage of doing it before rather than after. Our app helps you do this is a no-nonsense fashion. Remember, you need a minimum of 15 hours of dual education with a CFI-I to meet the requirements for an evaluation of the tool. However, many people require 50, 60, or more hours of double for evaluation. While 15 hours are perhaps a little reasonable number, 60+ is usually a large waste number caused by unprepared students trying to make books in the air. Learn the material before - our app helps you do it. Remember, IFR flying is all about the information - why otherwise all IFR programs "accelerated" will ask you to have completed your written tests before presenting the first day? [read more IFR training Philosophy] This application costs about the same books, but it is significantly more efficient time. Of course, DVD/Video sets may look beautiful, but most find them inefficient, clockwise. Our app works on YOUR rhythm at considerably lower costs. This application can be used to prepare the tests of the Instructor and checkride (flight test), but doing well on the part of the oral examination of your checkride will impress him more. Study for your written exam with our RideReady app. Starting early with RideReady is a plus, fromThat really goes a long way to teach you more complex scenarios, judgments and systems like questions you probably experience during your training and oral examination with regard to relatively simple exam. Connect with your instructor or school this application has a really cool feature. After completing a study session, you can, choose to report your progress to our TestPrepStatus.com system where you will be able to see the graphs of your studySo that you can identify your weaknesses. The really cool thing, however, is that it is also possible to invite your instructor (CFI, flight school, mechanical school, mentor, parent, study partners, etc.) to access and monitor vour progress. This is clean because now you can prove to your instructor in a concrete way now your studio is progressing. Access to the TestPrepStatus.com system is completely free for you and your instructor! Only groundschool has this innovative system. It's ... Groundschool is designed to help you learn the material and mark a lot on your test in the most efficient way possible. Our app represents years of listening and understanding the needs of pilots and mechanics. The program was designed with the singular goal of helping to learn the material so you can pass the Written Test FAA with a minimum of time and effort. Of course, there are some study methods that are cheaper (and many much more expensive!) ... But only if your time is worth nothing. Our app is fast, efficient and tested. Here are some app screenshots: With our FAA Write Test Prep App, you don't have to worry about having a version out of date. Our authors work to update data as FAA application pools change. Groundschool has an integrated auto-adjusting function that connects to our servers and make sure you have the latest and larger versions of the app and the data immediately after they become available. Furthermore, the automatic update can be used to install new test data (such as the assessment of the instruments at the top of the private pilot) so you can have them when and where it is necessary.
