Live stream Newsmax TV: Newsmax TV is news TV channel offering news about politics, national and world news, health, faith, personal finance and technology. Newsmax TV is based in West Palm Beach, Florida. It has offices in Washington, D.C. and New York City. The channel was founded in 1998. Rate:Report broken:Newsmax TV Top reviews Most recent Top reviews Photo Courtesy: Brendan Smailowski/Getty Images More and more people are unenrolling from expensive cable packages to instead enjoy streaming online. However, if you're only just now making the jump, you may be at a loss as to how to get started. With everything from Netflix to Youtube to choose from, it's easy to get overwhelmed. Even so, that same range of options also means that there's a way to stream TV online that's right for you. Whether you plan on using a laptop, tablet, phone or other device, there are plenty of choices available, and in the long run, virtually all of them are cheaper than cable. If you're looking to stream TV online while still using your television, you don't need to buy an expensive new Smart TV. With the purchase of a streaming device, such as a Roku Fire TV Stick, or even many popular gaming consoles, such as an Xbox One, you can go online directly from your TV. Depending on the device in question, you can browse the web for videos to stream directly from websites or use free video services, such as Pluto, IMDB TV and more Photo Courtesy:What Hi-Fi Magazine/Getty Images If you're willing to pay for it, a streaming subscription can improve your available selection of shows to watch immensely. Big names like Netflix, Amazon and Hulu are obvious choices, but there are also more niche options. CuriosityStream, for instance, is a streaming service that focuses on documentaries and costs significantly less than many of its competitors. Some services also offer live streaming, such as ESPN+. If you don't have access to an actual television, you can still stream TV using any device capable of running a web browser. While a tablet or laptop can give you a balance between screen size and portability, you can also stream your favorite shows on a desktop computer or even a smartphone. Photo Courtesy: Alain Jocard/Getty Images Apps for services both free and paid, such as YouTube, Netflix, Disney+ and more, make accessing shows easy and convenient. Even if you don't have an app to do it, however, you can often use the internet to find the content you want. Local television channels often offer the ability to stream a number of their shows for free on their website, while businesses and other organizations in your area may share recordings of local sporting events and other community highlights. In some cases, even prominent, nationally-televised cable share some of their episodes for free online. For example, to watch the latest episode of The Daily Show With Trevor Noah, you can head on over to Comedy Central's website. It may seem like you have to scrounge for good television if you're not willing to pay for it, but that's not actually the case — at least, if you know where to look. YouTube is a great example. This popular site isn't just for cat videos and other kinds of entertaining but otherwise brief videos. By selecting the menu button in the top-left corner and selecting "Movies and Shows," you can see a range of choices to not just buy or rent, but also watch for free with ads. Choices include everything from classic comedy Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure to Emperor, a post-World War II historical drama starring Tommy Lee Jones as General Douglas MacArthur during the American occupation of Japan. Photo Courtesy: Simone Joyner/Getty Images Similarly, you may be surprised to learn that Facebook offers free streaming of more than just the videos its users post. From full episodes of Buffy the Vampire Slayer to original programming, like Humans of New York: The Series, there's a shockingly wide pool of shows to choose from. Just select "Watch" from your homepage followed by "Shows and Movies" to get started. The downside is that Facebook doesn't make it easy to browse its full catalogue, but that's a small price to pay for free streaming. Photo Courtesy: Image Source/Getty Images In our current age of cord-cutting, it's normal to forego traditional cable, and doing so can save you a pretty penny. But sometimes you might miss sitting down and watching some good old-fashioned TV programming — and maybe even a commercial or two — like you used to do. Whether you're looking to indulge in a TV experience that's vaguely nostalgic or catch up on some of your favorite shows without taking a hit to your wallet, you can still watch TV online for free (and legally!). To settle in for some traditional TV programming without spending your hard-earned cash, check out these sites and services. Get ready to binge. This streaming service from beloved TV network and media conglomerate NBCUniversal may be new on the scene, but it's already a top player thanks to the thousands of show episodes and hundreds of movies it offers. If you're looking for one of the most authentic TV-watching experiences without the need for cable, this might be it; Peacock streams content live on different "channels" within the program, so you can switch up what you're watching just like you did in the old days with your cable box. Many of NBC's classic shows like The Office appear on this service, which includes about 15,000 hours of free programming. However, Peacock also offers several other paid tiers you can opt for if you decide you can't live without certain shows or want to access additional features and remove ads from what you're viewing. To get started watching for free and see for yourself what Peacock is about, sign up with your email address. Yes, it's that IMDB — the same one you visit when you can't remember that one actor's name even though you've seen them in dozens of movies. This famous digital database made the decision to branch out with its services, and streaming TV shows and movies couldn't have been a more perfect fit. With a free subscription, you can watch the entire catalogue of available programming, which includes TV shows spanning the last several decades and both newer and older films. IMDB TV is supported by non-skippable ads, and you don't have the option to upgrade to an ad-free tier, so keep that in mind as you're watching. Despite this, the library is extensive, and it's easy to access. You can create an IMDB profile to watch shows, but you can also sign in using your existing Facebook, Amazon, Google or Apple account. Once you sign in and watch a few episodes, IMDB populates a "personalized recommendations" list with new shows for you, and you can also create a watchlist of programs you want to binge on later. Here's a heavy-hitter you'll want to check out. With over 100,000 hours of programming and 250 different channels to browse, PlutoTV is perhaps the most robust option on this list. It's also the one that's mostly likely to give you that traditional TV experience; it's ad-supported, but it plays advertisements in structured commercial breaks similar to classic cable. Channels are organized into groupings like "News + Opinion" and "Sports" so it's easier to find what you're looking for, and the service also has a library of thousands of movies you can stream. PlutoTV works with most devices and through other TV services, whether you prefer to watch it using TiVo or your Android-equipped tablet. As an added bonus, you don't even need to sign up to start watching anything on PlutoTV — you can simply visit the website or open the app and start your binge whenever you feel the need. Looking for something universal that you can watch your way? No matter how you want to watch or where you are, as long as you have an internet connection, you can catch a few episodes on Tubi. This service from Fox is ad-supported, so, again, you'll need to sit through a few commercials here and there, but it offers tons of programming from some of the top providers: There's Fox Entertainment, naturally, but you'll also find content from NBCUniversal, Sony, Paramount, Warner Bros. and Lionsgate — yes, there are movies, too. Tubi works on most popular internet browsers, including Google Chrome, Firefox, Microsoft Edge and Safari, and you can also watch on most devices by downloading the Tubi app — available for iOS, Android, Roku and Amazon Fire — and signing into your account. One of the best things about Tubi, however, is that it's supported on such a wide (and potentially unexpected) range of other devices. You can watch on your Xbox One. You can watch using your PlayStation 4. You can even download the player to your smart TV. And with genres ranging from martial arts to telenovelas and curated collections that compile fun favorites all in one spot, you're not likely to run out of great programming anytime soon. Plex is a bit different than the other offerings on this list, but it's still one to consider. Instead of functioning as a sign-in streaming service, Plex is a media-player client that you can download to your computer. This desktop application also runs on a variety of other devices — you can put it on your Amazon Fire TV Stick to watch programming on a large screen, for example — and allows you to manage various media like photos, songs and other audio if you prefer to use it as a sort of media hub, or "Mediaverse" as Plex calls it. Although it seems like Plex's focus might be on organizing your digital media, it's quite generous in terms of its TV offerings. You can watch over 80 channels live, although they're mostly niche and lesser-known stations, and you can also stream TV shows and movies on demand when you see something appealing. There's also a subscription option that runs around $5 a month, and it provides some bonus features like the ability to skip show intros, 4K support and the option to download shows to your device for offline viewing. In order to keep informed, it's best to check out multiple news sources, so if you're looking for ways to watch Newsmax TV without cable, we have you covered. Newsmax TV has been around since 2014, and Newsmax Media owns it, and it reportedly reaches some 50 million homes across the United States. Now, if you want to watch Newsmax TV, you can do so via cable, but it's always better to go online and have access anywhere you go, on any of your devices. That being said, we found the channel on three Live TV Streaming platforms. Let's find out which those are. 1. Sling TV Sling is the live TV you love for less. Customize your channel lineup and watch TV online with no setup, hidden fees or long-term contracts. At the top of the list, we have Sling TV, one of the most successful over-the-top (OTT) platforms. With three starter bundles - Orange, Blue, and Orange + Blue, you can pick whichever one you like best, either for the channel combo or the price. Newsmax TV is present in the News Extra channel pack, for which you'll have to pay an extra $5 per month when you subscribe to Sling TV. Check out TechNadu's Sling TV review for more details on what it has to offer. 2. fuboTV Watch Your Favorite Shows, Movies & Sports ON ANY DEVICE. ANYTIME. ANYWHERE. Watch and DVR the channels you love. No contracts, no commitment. The Sports centric service fuboTV carries Newsmax TV on its platform. The channel is available in two bundles - Starter and Elite. You can pick the Starter bundle and subscribe to fuboTV to start watching Newsmax TV. fuboTV offers 250 hours of Cloud DVR, Family Share up to 3 screens, and Up to 10 Unlimited simultaneous screens for an extra cost. Read our in-depth fuboTV review for more details. 3. Pluto TV One of the Free Live TV service out there offering more than 250+ channels to watch. It has differnt genres of On-Demand Movies and TV Shows as well. Next up, we have the free service Pluto TV, a great platform for those who want free live TV over the Internet but don't really want to pay anything either. Newsmax TV is present on the channel list on Channel 236, so you'll have to scroll a bit. It's also in the News category, along with all other similar channels. Check out our Pluto TV review for more info. 4. XUMO XUMO is your destination for free LIVE and on-demand streaming entertainment. With over 190 different channels in breaking news, epic falls, stand up comedy, sports, news coverage, and more. Finally, we have XUMO, which is another free OTT platform you can try out. Newsmax TV is also present on the channel list here at Channel 138, and it falls under the News section. Give our XUMO review a read to find out if what it has to offer is enough for you. We hope you're now one step closer to watching Newsmax TV without getting a cable subscription, anywhere you go. Let us know what platform you picked in the comments section below, and please share the article online so others can find it too. Come chat with TechNadu over on Facebook and Twitter. Thanks! Newsmax is a right-wing media outlet that grew in popularity in the wake of the 2020 election. Like OAN before it, it's become a favorite of those who believe Fox News plays things too straight and wavered in its undying loyalty for Donald Trump. Trump, of course, lost the 2020 presidential election but refused to accept that fact, and Newsmax quickly fell in line as a true believer. That continued up to and beyond the day Trump left office, and it undoubtedly will continue to bring the same sort of rhetoric into the Biden/Harris administration.Newsmax also quickly jumped on the false idea that specific companies were responsible for voting machines changing the results (repeat — that never happened) but has since slowly walked back those claims after the specter of defamation lawsuits loomed large.Not that any of that has slowed the rise of Newsmax. So much so that it's begun to beat Fox News in some specific demographics in some specific time slots.So, then — how can you watch Newsmax on your TV? It's not part of the YouTube TV channels.There's a scant few streaming services that carry Newsmax. Here's how to watch if you're into that sort of thing.One of the best things about living in America is having the freedom to watch what you want to watch, when you want to watch it. That isn't true of everywhere else, though. And for that reason it's important to have a good VPN in your Democracy Toolkit.A Virtual Private Network keeps your internet traffic free of limitations. It allows you to route things through American Servers and keep all your traffic American.And that's the sort of thing you'll need to keep the News flowing when it's all said and done.Our recommendation! If you're looking to watch Newsmax but aren't in your usual Newsmax viewing area, a VPN might well be the way to jump-start things. ExpressVPN is one of the easiest and affordable ways to watch what you want from anywhere you want to watch it. Plus it'll help keep your network traffic away from any prying eyes on public networks. Because the Deep State is everywhere!View Deal Watch Newsmax on FuboTVFuboTV is one of the smallest live streaming services in the United States, which really just means that it's a true patriot and hasn't yet been corrupted by the system of corporate greed. Or something like that.It's also a great option for watching all the things you want to watch without being hassled by the name, and that includes Newsmax.FuboTV's "Starter" plan lands at $64.99 a month. There's also FuboTV Elite, which adds on 44 more channels, additional cloud DVR, and lets you watch on more devices at once. So you can have Newsmax all the places.Ain't America great?Watch Newsmax on Sling TV Sling TV is the best option for streaming Newsmax on your television. First you'll need either the Sling Orange or Sling Blue plan. They're $30 a month each, or $45 a month if you get them both.Then you'll need the News add-on for either one of those packages. Newsmax is included in each. The Sling Orange news add-on also gets you BBC World News, HLN, Weather Nation, Euronews, Science, News18, RT America, CGTN, and Law & Crime.The Sling Blue news add-on also gets you Fox Business, CNBC, BBC World News, Law & Crime, Weather Nation, Science, Euronews, France 24 English, News18, NDTV 24x7, RT America, and CGTN.See all Sling TV channels and pricingWatch Newsmax for free on RokuNewsmax on Roku is another option if you're looking to stream. (Roku also happens to be the No. 1 streaming platform in the United States.)Getting the Newsmax Roku channel onto your Roku player or Roku TV is simple. Just head into the channel store on your Roku device and search for "Newsmax," and then install the channel.Alternatively, you can go to the web page for the Newsmax channel here.As for the best Roku for Newsmax? Plus it comes with a free set of premium earbuds for private listening via the Roku Voice Remote — because it's nobody else's business what comes into your head but yours.View Deal Watch Newsmax for free with Pluto TVPluto TV is a free streaming service owned by ViacomCBS. (Yes, that's the same ViacomCBS that owns CBS, which is a network with actual news.) Pluto TV is free and supported by advertising that appears during shows.So you can stream Newsmax that way without having to pay a dime. Which, frankly, is probably the way most people would prefer to stream Newsmax.Pluto TV is available on all major hardware platforms, including Roku, Amazon Fire TV, Android TV, Apple TV, PlayStation, Xfinity, and Chromecast. It also has apps for Android and iPhones, dedicated apps for Mac and Windows, and you can watch on select smart TVs from Amazon Fire TV, Hisense, Roku, Samsung and Vizio. And, of course, you can stream Newsmax in a web browser.Watch Newsmax on Amazon Fire TVNewsmax also is available on Amazon Fire TV, which is the second most popular streaming platform in the United States, behind Roku. To watch Newsmax on Amazon Fire TV, all you need to do is install the Newsmax TV app. You can get to it by searching for "Newsmax" on your Amazon Fire TV. That works by searching with your voice — literally, just say "Newsmax" out loud after pressing the microphone button on your remote.Or you also can install the Newsmax app on Fire TV by going to the Amazon Appstore page for Newsmax and then clicking the "Deliver to" button on the top right.The best Fire Stick for patriots! Our favorite Amazon Fire TV device for true patriots is the Amazon Fire TV Stick 4K. It allows you to watch the revolution in full 4K resolution with Dolby Vision, and listen to it in its full Dolby Atmos glory. The insurrection never looked or sounded so good!View Deal
