Over that period, the team has won multiple World Series titles. In 1998, Cubs outfielder Sammy Sosa and Cardinals first baseman Mark McGwire were the biggest story in baseball. Both players seemed destined to break Roger Maris’s record of 61 home runs in a single season. Sosa and McGwire both broke the record by the end of the season. Sosa finished second to McGwire with 66 home runs. Until 2016, the Cubs were known for having the longest championship drought in major pro sports. 103 years passed between the Cubs’ second World Series win in 1908 and their third in 2016. Though Cubs fans had gotten used to disappointment over the years, there were plenty of reasons to be optimistic about the 2016 team. After an exciting 2015 season in which the Cubs made the playoffs in a Wild Card spot and made it to the NLCS, the Cubs returned even stronger in 2016. They won 100 games in the regular season for the first time since the Great Depression and won the NL Central division. They reached the World Series for the first time since 1945. After falling behind the Cleveland Indians three games to one, the Cubs won the final three games — including a dramatic 8-7 Game 7 win in extra innings—and won their first World Series title in more than a century. The Cubs’ home ballpark is Wrigley Field on Chicago’s north side (Guaranteed Rate Field, home of the American League’s White Sox, is on the south side). The Cubs have played at Wrigley since 1916, and the park is the oldest in the National League. Cubs ticket prices on the secondary market can vary depending on a number of factors. Typically, Cubs tickets can be found for as low as $19.00, with an average price of $94.00. If you’re looking for cheap Cubs tickets, tickets can be found for as low as $19.00. Additionally, once you click on your preferred event date, use the “sort by price” button located in the top left hand corner of the event page to sort all available Cubs tickets by cheapest tickets available. The Cubs home games are played at Wrigley Field in Chicago, IL. As of 2019, all MLB teams offer mobile ticketing methods but some teams still allow print-at-home tickets. Currently, the Cubs accept mobile only tickets to gain entry into Wrigley Field. Each MLB team has their own child ticket policy. Some teams have age requirements and others have restrictions on height. The Cubs ticket policy states all children 2 and under are free. The Cubs schedule is typically released in August, though the MLB will continue to announce games through the middle of January. See above for all Cubs games, home and away. They ended the four-game series in Los Angeles with a dud, losing 7-1 on Sunday. The Chicago Cubs climbed back to the top of the NL Central Division during the pandemic-shortened 2020 season. Chicago finished the 60-game season with the fourth best record in the National League. However, the Miami Marlins’ exposed an average Cubs offense. Miami limited the Cubs to a single run in a two-game sweep of the best-of-three wildcard round. During the regular season, Chicago had the fourth worst batting average in baseball, but was reasonably efficient at plating runs. However, Chicago was a collective 1 for 13 with runners in scoring position in the two playoff losses. Familiar faces from the Cub’s World Series Championship are still in the lineup. Nevertheless, in this age of free agency Chicago is at a point where holes are being exposed. 6 Games Game 1. Ian Happ 2. Willson Contreras 3. Anthony Rizzo 4. Kris Bryant 5. Joc Pederson 6. Hoerner The Cub’s pitching staff was heavily responsible for the team’s success in 2020. Chicago posted an ERA of just under 4.00. The combination of efficient scoring and pitching helped the Cubs make the playoffs. However, core weaknesses were exposed by the Marlins. Kyle Schwarber and Alberto Alomar jr. left via free agency, but Chicago only added one top-level hitter, Joc Pederson. The Cubs made a deal for Zach Davies and signed once highly-prized pitching prospect Kohl Stewart. Davies will replace Yu Darvish, but Stewart hasn’t pitched in a year, opting out for 2020. Chicago opens 2021 as a playoff contender. However, Javier Baez and Kris Bryant will become agents. As the season progresses, performance will decide if the Cubs choose to dismantle and rebuild, or opt for an in-season reboot.
